BULL RILEY CAPTURED AGAIN A LEGAL SUBJECT

Fred Liptow, a farmer, yesterday afternoon swore to a warrant of replevin against P. L. Riley, a farmer living near Leyden, to secure possession of a three year old black and white Holstein bull. The case did not come into court, a satisfactory settlement being made between the parties. This is the bull which was the cause of the Wilson Lane-Riley trouble of some weeks ago. Lane contends that the bull was his and that all the while it belonged to Liptow.

SHOPIERE'S MEET A GREAT SUCCESS

Janesville Is Well Represented at Shopiere Annual Community Field Day.

Shopiere's annual community field day celebration was by far the best ever held in that section of the county in many years. The estimated attendance throughout the day was put at five hundred people. Persons from all over the country visited the scene of activities at different times during the day. Janesville was well represented in attendance and in the athletic contests also. The celebration was held in the place known as Spicer's Grove.

In the morning games such as dodge ball and "soak-up" were staged for the old and young. The former game seemed to be getting more popular every day. During the noon hour the crowds enjoyed a basket picnic. The afternoon sports were the big things of the day. The baseball game between Rock Prairie and Shopiere ended in favor of the visitors. The final score was 15 to 11. The track events proved to be a great success and it is possible that such contests would have been held more often. A track team from this city entered in the events and took a good share of the honors. Edward Atwood won the 100 yard dash, the time being eleven seconds, which is very fast, considering the rough ground that was running over. Reed and Howard of Shopiere came in second in this event. The first place in the fifty yard dash went to Reed. His time was seven seconds. Atwood came in a close second and Howard received third place. In the four hundred yard relay race the Janesville team won from the Shopiere quartet. The time was 47 seconds. The local team was made up of Atwood, Sullivan, Lovejoy and Cunningham. The Shopiere four were Howard, Smith, Howard and Reed. In the low hurdle class Reed took first place, Brotherson of Janesville second, and Smith third. The time was 17 1/2 seconds. Atwood had little trouble in taking the high jump. The height was 5 feet 1 inch. Brotherson and Howard tied for second, and Henry and Reed tied for third place. Much interest was shown in these events and it is probable that a similar meet will be held next summer.

DR. JONES TO SPEAK ON FORD PEACE TRIP

Head of Lincoln Center, Chicago, Will Give Address at Clear Lake Conference August 6th.

Dr. Jenkins Lloyd Jones, head of Lincoln Center, Chicago, former pastor of the All Souls' church in Janesville, will deliver the principal address at the Clear Lake conference at Lincoln Center farm near Milton on Sunday, August 6. It has been announced that Dr. Jones' subject will be "Lessons of the Ford Peace Expedition." He is chairman of the Ford peace expedition and is one of the most prominent pacifists.

Forty girls who have been enjoying an outing at the Lincoln Center farm, returned to Chicago this morning. Harold Van Kirk, who is in charge of the farm, accompanied them and will return with a group of boys, who will be given a two weeks' vacation at Clear Lake.

William Langdon and W. F. Eickmann Have Accident East of City. Neither are Hurt.

William Langdon and W. F. Eickmann in a large touring car crashed into a bridge on the Milwaukee road in the town of Johnston, eight miles east of this city, early today wrecking their machine. Neither was hurt, although their accident came near being a serious one. The car was brought to the Kemmerer Garage.

COMPANY OF LITTLE FOLKS ENJOY A BIRTHDAY PARTY

Little Mary Sollerker, North Pearl street, entertained eighteen of her little friends Wednesday afternoon on the occasion of her fourth birthday. The time was spent at games and a four course luncheon was served. At five o'clock the little folks were taken for an auto ride. They left for their homes at seven o'clock after a most enjoyable party.

Morrissey Back: Night Police Captain Thomas Morrissey returned to his duties last night after ten days' vacation. Officer Jay Hymers left this morning for his annual vacation.

ADVISED LAW BREACH; FINED AND LECTURED

Emil Nitscher, Warned of City Ordinance by Police, Suffers Penalty Before Judge Maxfield.

Emil Nitscher, 1019 Oakland avenue, of the Nitscher Implement company, paid a fine of twenty-five dollars and costs in municipal court yesterday for advising a man to go ahead and break a city ordinance and, aside from the maximum penalty, was subjected to a withering reprimand by Judge Maxfield.

Amiel Tawers, a farmer, drove his threshing machine into town for repairs at the Nitscher works. Near Fourth avenue bridge he was warned by an officer that to cross the structure and go on North Main street he would have to place a covering of planks over the brick pavement in compliance with the city ordinance relative to the driving of tractor engines on improved streets. Nitscher called up Chief Champion and was told the same thing. He promptly ordered Tawers to come ahead and that he, Nitscher, would pay any fine if Tawers was arrested.

A warrant was sworn out for the farmer and, when Judge Maxfield learned of Nitscher's affiliation with the case, sent for him. The fact that Nitscher was warned of the ordinance and then deliberately ordered Tawers to go ahead filed the court and Nitscher was given a lecture.

On similar charges Mike Borge, of the town of Janesville was fined five dollars and costs. He proved to the satisfaction of the court that he was entirely ignorant of the existence of the ordinance.

GAZETTE TO PUBLISH BIG MYSTERY STORY

"The Thirty-Nine Steps" a Tale of European Intrigue, Gazette's New Serial—Begins Saturday.

A story of European intrigue and mystery, which ranks with the best novels of the kind, will be the next Gazette serial story which will appear, beginning on Saturday. It is "The Thirty-Nine Steps," by John Buchan. The efforts of a young Englishman, newly risen from his exploits in Rhodesia, to foil a plot which contemplated the assassination of the Greek premier, prove exciting enough to hold one's interest until the last line of the story appears. There are mystery and thrills plenty. It is recommended as a most entertaining novel for summer reading.

Barley—No. 2 nominal; No. 3 93. Barley—64@80.

Wednesday's Markets. Chicago, July 13.—There was a decline of 5 1/2c in hog prices yesterday to the lowest average of the month. Closing trade was top-heavy, with 7,000 left over.

Receipts for the first half of this week increased 27,000 over a year ago, while shipments decreased nearly 14,000 during the same period.

Increasing shipping orders and the big increase in the net supply of hogs are weakening factors, making packers more bearish than usual. Another break in values is predicted.

Yesterday's closing cattle trade was weak with prices 50c@51.25 lower than high time last month. Best beefs sold at $10.85, against $11.30 a week ago.

Receipts for today are estimated at 4,000 cattle, 7,000 hogs and 4,000 sheep, against 3,346 cattle, 13,190 hogs and 13,140 sheep a year ago.

Average price of hogs at Chicago was $9.82, against $9.89 Tuesday, $9.87 a week ago, $7.65 a year ago and $8.75 two years ago.

Best Cattle at $10.85. General run of cattle sales yesterday showed a 10@15 decline compared with Monday. Best beefs sold at $10.85, being lowest Wednesday top since May 24. Butcher stock and feeding cattle shared in the decline.

Choice to fancy steers . . . $10.20@10.35
Poor to good steers . . . 8.00@10.15
Yearlings, fair to fancy . . . 8.20@10.60
Fat cows and heifers . . . 7.20@9.50

Native bulls and stags . . . 5.40@8.65
Feeding cattle, 600@1,000
lbs. . . . . 5.40@5.50
Poor to fancy calves . . . 5.50@12.00

Hog Values Decline. Another excessive run of hogs forced an uneven break in prices, with spread in quotation wider, owing to poorer quality. Grassy and common to fair corn fed, mixed stock more plentiful. Few sold above the $10 mark, with best shippers at $10.35. Pigs steady. Quotations:

Bulk of sales . . . $9.65@10.09
Heavy butchers and ship-
phs. . . . . 10.00@10.15
Light butchers, 190@230
lbs. . . . . 9.85@10.19
Light hogs, 115@140 lbs.
Heavy packing, 260@400
lbs. . . . . 9.55@10.05
Mixed packing, 200@250
lbs. . . . . 9.50@9.50

Boxes From Waste Newspapers.

Waste newspapers are used almost exclusively in the manufacture of the cardboard or pasteboard which goes to form the pasteboard box in which dressmakers, shoemakers and department stores generally deliver dresses, suits, shoes, etc., and one of the largest factories in the United States for the manufacture of this kind of cardboard is located just outside of Philadelphia on the Schuylkill river at Manayunk.

"SPEAR HEAD"

The Famous Chew with the Delicious, Fruity Flavor That Lasts

MADE BY MODERN PROCESSES

You want to get all the enjoyment and benefit possible out of tobacco. Then chew Spearmint.

You want your chew to have the wholesome appetizing richness of ripe fruit. Then chew Spearmint.

You want a plug with a deliciously sweet and mellow flavor that lasts as long as the chew lasts. Then chew Spearmint.

One chew of Spearmint will convince any man that there's no other tobacco on earth with such a rich and lasting flavor. That's because all the natural juices of the choicest Burley leaf are retained in Spearmint.

The making of Spearmint is conducted strictly according to pure-food methods in a great modern factory that is spic-and-span throughout.

The most expensive modern processes keep Spearmint fresh, sweet and pure at every stage.

The luscious plug of Spearmint from which you bite the tastiest, wholesomest of chews, represents the highest form of plug tobacco production.

Try Spearmint—the very best chew that money can buy—5c and 10c cuts.

THE REPUBLICAN TICKET.

Governor—Emanuel L. Philipp, Milwaukee.
United States Senator—Malcolm G. Jeffris, Janesville.
Lieutenant Governor—Maj. Marshall Cousins, Eau Claire.
Secretary of State—Assemblyman George L. Harrington, Elkhorn.
State Treasurer—Henry Johnson, Oconto.
Attorney General—Emmett R. Hicks, Oshkosh.

Republicans of Wisconsin will have the opportunity of voting for the above gentlemen at the coming September primaries, confident they are of the particular brand and type of republicans that should represent the state. This is the net result of the convention held Wednesday in Madison, although as side issues the fact that a thousand odd men braved the heat, took long railroad journeys, suffered untold inconveniences, to be present for a few hours at the gathering demonstrated that the spirit of republicanism is not dead by any means in Wisconsin and is something to be figured on in the final outcome.

Philipp's renomination came as a matter of fact. Cousins' selection was known in advance. The choice of Henry Johnson for state treasurer was a reward for faithful service to the present administration, although elected on an opposition ticket two years ago. George Harrington's candidacy for secretary of state was brought about by his friends because they believed him amply qualified for the office by his close study of state affairs. Emmett Hicks for attorney general was a combination of conditions that make his selection especially pleasing.

THE HOME COMING.

If the proposed Home Coming is to be made a success it means that there is a lot of good, hard systematic work ahead of the committee in charge. It means that efforts must be made to reach the thousands of former residents, now living at almost the four points of the globe, to interest them to return for the week's reunion with old friends.

The time is short and the subscriptions to make this a possibility must be liberal. Money makes the mare go, and age means that money must be spent in many ways different from those of a few years ago if the affair is to be a success.

Home Coming Weeks are always replete with interest to the citizens generally. Always full of stories by returned visitors of past glories of their home town. The bits of history gleaned at this time means much to the present generation and they should be as much interested in making the days as pleasant as possible. Janesville has sent into the great world beyond thousands of citizens who have made places for themselves in their new homes. That they have a warm place in their hearts for their own home town is evidenced by the delight they show on their return at isolated periods. To bring them all home one time would mean a grand, glorious reunion and it should be the part of citizens to know their whereabouts to apprise them of the coming celebration in their special honor.

SUMMER HOTELS.

It is quite an eye-opener to travel around to the summer resorts and see the lavish and enormous palaces built for the summer vacation business. When you consider that most of these places can do a good business not over two to three months in a year, it does seem as if many of them must be run at a loss.

Not merely do they have as heavy an operating expense as a fine city hotel, but they must pay interest on capital, depreciation, repairs, and taxes, out of the profits of a very short season. The management may save something by transferring their force of employees from winter resort houses run alternately with the summer places. But at best there must be long between seasons when things go slow.

The modern wealthy American is a free spender, and he demands and is willing to pay for high standards of service and luxuries. Probably the servants in these places get their pay largely out of the free tipping prevalent, which must help a lot.

Smaller hotels run for people of moderate means look like a less risky proposition. These are very apt to depend for their service on school teachers or college students living near by, who can be hired at moderate rates and need be engaged only for a short season. Their equipment seems rather primitive to people used to high class hotels. There may be no electric bells and the guests may have to depend on oil lamps. But at the present cost of living a great many people are willing to put up with the lack of modern conveniences.

There are thousands of these small hotels in attractive scenes that get just about the same crowd of people year after year. If they provide good home cooking, comfortable beds, pure water, and good sanitation, a great many other lacks are overlooked. People return year after year, and the pleasure of meeting old friends counts more than the niceties of service.

AUTOMOBILE TOURS.

The number of people who take long automobile trips in summer is very remarkable. The machine that whizzes through the main street of the town may have come a thousand miles. And these long distance tourists are not by any means those that own the most high priced and comfortable cars. The man who is insured to bumping around in an inexpensive car gets hardened to jolts, and thinks little of a trip of many hundred miles.

The motor trip habit is one of the most serious problems the railroad has to meet. Even with the high cost of gasoline and tires, the journey for a family is cheaper over the road than it can be on the train. The upkeep of the highway on which you run is paid for by the taxpayers. On the railroad the price of the ticket pays for maintenance of tracks.

Still the man who can't afford an automobile need not feel that all the joys of life are denied him. He spends no hours on his back in the road looking up into the bowels of the machine. He is bothered by no refractory spark plugs, and he gets to his destination while the motorist is hours distant.

The rural postmistress used to be supposed to hold back the postal cards until she had had time to read the interesting messages. No complaint is ever made that she holds back any modern souvenir postcards for the messages they contain.

Formerly political campaigns were won by the side having the longest torchlight processions. In these more intelligent days, the voters make up their minds after reading the newspaper headlines.

MILITIA MOBILIZATION EXHAUSTS THE CHICAGO LABOR SUPPLY.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.) Chicago, July 13.—Whatever the effect may have been on other cities, the mobilization of the American militia finds Chicago facing a serious shortage of labor today. The extensive employment of women in what heretofore have been exclusively masculine fields is not considered improbable nor remote. Labor employment bureaus are swamped with demands for male help of all kinds. Want ads of jobs are jammed with offers of jobs. More than 1,000 regular manual labor jobs are waiting for men to take them. Almost an equal number of skilled labor jobs are open.

The demand for office assistants, managers, clerks and men of trades is far in excess of the supply. Hundreds of first class jobs have gone begging ever since Uncle Sam's call for state troops took the militiamen from their benches, desks and offices and the prosecution of regular business in many instances seriously has been interfered with.

On the Spur of the Moment

ROY K. MOULTON

Revenge.
"Twins long ago she won my heart,
And swore from me she'd never part.
When she gave me her maiden kiss,
I tell you, fellows, it was bliss."

I had a friend, his name was Jim;
To him she somehow took a whim.
I don't know how it came about,
But Jim, he sort of cut me out.

She was a full-grown peach all right;
She was, in fact, a beauty bright.
But I got my revenge on Jim;
You see, she up and married him.

"Old Jim," they call him in our town;
He limps around and wears a frown.
His shoulders they are bent with toil,
And he's as sore as any boy.

She's interested in new thought,
And doesn't know the things she ought.
She hires three maids to do her work,
But Jim has not a chance to shirk.

Jim had the laugh on me, all right,
When he copped out my beauty bright.
That was in the dim and dismal past;
He chuckles best who chuckles last.

The Answer.
After the war is all over,
After the dead are forgot;
Ask for the cause of the carnage—
History will answer you, WHAT?

After rebuilding the cities,
Leveled by cannon and shot;
Ask for the reason they did it—
History will answer you, WHAT?

After all things are forgotten,
Whether they caused it or not;
Down through the ages to come yet,
The echo will always be WHAT?

Advice to Drivers.
If you find your machine missing,
Advertise and somebody may bring it
Back to you.

Always have your ten-year-old kid
Drive your car when you are not using it yourself. Then you can spend your money defending damage suits and will be able to die poor, which is a very laudable ambition.

Blame your car for everything that happens, even when you run out of oil and gasoline.

For every horn every two minutes,
For every body will know that you are a new driver and will get out of your way.

The Circus Is Coming.
Soon comes the day of the sawdust ring.
By Jim!

The old folks all have to go
And see the show.
So as to children, the kids:
Outside of that their age forbids.
Don't say they may, it is no use;
They'll go and borrow an excuse in spite of some near neighbor's child.

The world has smiled
For years and years at silly clowns;
The ups and downs
Of mighty acrobats have thrilled.
Year after year the acts are filled.
They pay their hard-earned dough to see

The freaks perform, in highest glee.
It isn't possible to pass
The gentleman who eats the glass.
The living skeleton, they say,
Never grows passive.

The girl with snakes about her form
Is sure to take the crowd by storm.
The rubber-skinned man, snaps his hide
And sells his photos far and wide.
The gapping crowds will stand and stare

At toothless lions in their lair.
The elephants will stand and eat
Peanuts and shift pole-drier feet.
The chariots drawn by horse power,
Will stand around three miles an hour.

And mighty crowds will gaze in awe,
The greatest thing they ever saw.
Of course, they've seen it all before
In days of yore.
Some instructions pass away
And quickly fail.

The circus though, has come to stay,
It never grows stale.

ONLY A VOLUNTEER.

In charity the giver leans,
To secrecy, or else to keenness,
One gives according to his means,
And one according to his meanness.

"Deaf and dumb! Tch-tch!" sighed
Rearwards Front, whose benevolence was so acute that it interfered with his sleep, and he took a handful of silver from his back pocket and emptied it into the outstretched hat of the expectant mendicant.

"Oh, sir, thank you kindly, thank ye sir," said the beggar.
"What's that?" "What's that?" sputtered Rearwards Front. "What do you mean by masquerading in a deaf and dumb sign?"

"Oh, sir, I beg your pardon, I forgot, being naturally polite, explained the beggar. "You see, the truth is, I'm merely minding this place for the chap as owns it—it's his sign."

"Oh, and where is he?" demanded
Mr. Front.
"Oh, him. He's just stepped over to the square to hear the band concert. They're playing Skibbooch's music today, and he's very fond of Skib-booch."

At that moment it started to drizzle, and Rearwards front moved on.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Quick results follow the use of Gazette want ads. A trial will convince you.

With the increased leisure of our American life, there has arisen the great problem of determining how this leisure must be spent. This problem is somewhat more difficult of solution than one would suppose at the first glance. To obtain the correct answer to this problem we must call in the doctor, the psychologist, the criminologist, the merchant, the banker, the physician, professional men or all types. In fact, the leaders from the various walks of life.

The Janesville Chautauqua is a help in the solving of the tremendous problem as to what a community should do with its leisure time. The Chautauqua week is one of pleasure, relaxation and recreation mixed with instruction. The Chautauqua brings the people of the town together and makes them forget their religious, political and social differences. More than a thousand people of our community gather twice a day under the big tent. One half of us do not know how the other half live. The lack of our social ability and the lack of knowledge of our neighbors is responsible for much of the injustice, intolerance and inequality of the world.

The city that has no Chautauqua is somewhat like a room that has no pictures on the wall, or like a man that has no ambition. The Chautauqua gathers and uplifts the spiritual and the practical side of life. The social side of life cannot be developed if our whole energy is consumed in thinking about our bread and butter, houses and land and stocks and bonds.

People are never old until they get into a rut. Towns never die until they get into a rut. One of the main advantages of the Chautauqua is that it keeps a town from getting into a rut and therefore keeps the town perpetually young.

The Chautauqua is an intellectual clearing house. It is a social equalizer. It is an emotional tonic to the people of any live American city.

ELECTING A PRESIDENT

9

Zachary Taylor, Democrat, Elected in 1848.

Taylor.

In this election Zachary Taylor of Louisiana was opposed by Lewis Cass, Whig, of Michigan. The Democratic convention was held at Baltimore, and the Whigs met at Philadelphia. The vote was 163 to 127. Martin Van Buren ran again on the Free Soil ticket. The popular vote was: Taylor, 1,300,101; Cass, 1,220,544; Van Buren, 201,263. Millard Fillmore was chosen vice president that year.

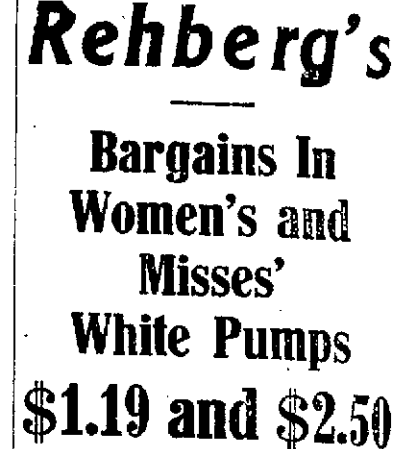

In the election of 1852 Franklin Pierce was the Democratic nominee and Winfield Scott the Whig candidate. The former was elected by a big majority in the electoral college, but by a scant popular plurality. William R. King of Alabama was elected vice president that year.

WONDERFUL PICTURE SHOWN AT BEVERLY

"The Dumb Girl of Portici" an Ovation in Moving Picture Art Delights Large Audiences.

Miss Anna Pavlova's wonderful portrayal of the character of Fennella, the dumb girl of Portici, as shown on the screen at the Beverly theatre last evening, was one of the most dramatic and striking films ever shown in Janesville. It was wonderful in its creative power, but the surprise came in the actual characterization of the dumb dancer of the viceroy ridden fallen city of many centuries ago, by the noted Russian dancer.

A generation ago this production was known as the opera Masaniello and was produced all over the world. In name only can the opera and the film production be compared. No music, to words could have told the story which was depicted by the film and Janesville audiences are to be congratulated on having been given the opportunity of viewing them and the theatre management in bringing this wonderful artistic view to the city.

The wildest imagination of one who recalls the primitive operatic production of what genius in film craft and woman at that, has accomplished within the confines of a modern picture plant. "The Black Crook" was the title of the spectacle presented in our theatres at the time "Masaniello" was the rage. Neither "The Black Crook" or "Masaniello" would do today. The only reason why Pavlova chose "Masaniello" as a vehicle was because of the remarkable character of "Fennella" and because the Russian celebrity is the only woman in all the world who could portray the role which has frightened more sinners and caused more of a furor in its day than any mind of an author has ever conceived. It is as Fennella that Pavlova will electrify the world.

Saturday Holiday.

The beginnings of the Saturday half-holiday might be traced to an old-time custom among southern planters. "On Saturdays," says Professor Sanford in "The Story of Agriculture," "for either the whole or a part of the day, the slaves were released from field work."

In many cases they used this time and Sundays in which to earn money for themselves by hiring out and doing odd jobs. There were many instances in which slaves purchased their freedom and that of their families with money earned in this way.

NEWS NOTES from MOVIELAND

Harry S. Hilliard, the co-star with the new film discovery, little June Caprice, in "Caprice of the Mountains," rose to prominence in feature films through his work as male star with Vivian Martin. They played together in "Morely Mary Ann," a dramatization of Israel Zangwill's novel, and later in "A Modern Thelma," a charming Scandinavian romance filmed in the mountains in Georgia. He bears the title of "the handsomest man in the movies," and aside from his masculine beauty he is a young actor of much dramatic talent.

PLAYS MINOR ROLE TO WIN SYMPATHY.

Because she thinks that nobody loves her on the screen, Pauline Frederick has decided that she would rather play the less important role of the self-sacrificing wife in the adaptation of Clyde Fitch's celebrated play, "The Woman in the Case," than assume the title character, who is a deep-deyed "villainess." "When this picture goes out on the program people are going to see me in the guise of the sympathetic and devoted wife," says Miss Frederick. "I have not given up playing heavy characters, but simply want the sympathy of the audience to be with me for a change—if I can win it."

ACTOR WOULD HAVE MADE A PRIZE PUG.

De Will van Court, noted boxing instructor and former trainer of champions, meets Herschel Mayall, who acts before the camera. Van Court shakes his head and his eyes become moist when he looks upon the person of Mr. Mayall, for he considers when the latter took to the theatrical profession the prize ring lost a master workman. He told that after recovering somewhat from a blow encountered one time during a friendly sparring match Van Court went on his knees to the actor, pleading with him to become a pugilist. Both of the principals, however, deny the rumor. Miss June Caprice was complimented on her pretty curly hair by one of the gallant sirs appearing in the new film play, "Caprice of the Mountains."

"The Redemption of Dave Darcey" in which James Morrison is featured at the Beverly tonight tells the story of a crook who went straight when given the opportunity and although sorely tempted at times, his new self wins out and he eventually shows the world that he is made of the right stuff by saving his employer honor as well as his factory from the hands of secret agents of foreign governments. As an added attraction Hearst International pictorial news service will be shown.

AT THE APOLLO.

Mollie King in "Fate's Boomerang." "Fate's Boomerang" at the Apollo tonight will serve to bring Mollie King, star of "A Woman's Power," back to the screen after an absence of several months, in which time she has been working hard on several big features which will shortly be released on the World Film program. In "Fate's Boomerang" Miss King plays the role of a little mother of the marvelous. It is a story that is strong in plot and action, a feature acted by an all-star cast, in an atmosphere second to none. The scenes were taken in the mountains 2,500 feet above the sea and are the most interesting and picturesque "Fate's Boomerang" will be the feature shown on the screen at the Apollo theatre tonight.

AT THE APOLLO.

Fanny Ward in "The Cheat." Fanny Ward, the celebrated American actress, will be seen at the Apollo on Friday in the Jesse L. Lasky production of Hector Turnbull's thrilling society drama, "The Cheat." Miss Ward made such a pronounced success as the little country girl in "The Marriage of Kitty," that her friends were under the impression she was essentially a comedienne, but in "The Cheat" another side of her wonderful versatility is shown and she commands great admiration for her wonderful dramatic force and technique.

Harry Hilliard.

He is a native of Cincinnati, where he was educated; is of German-American descent; and was successful on the Broadway stage before he entered moving pictures last year.

"Yes," she said, "I'm fond of canoeing and sailing." "What's that got to do with it?" "Well, you see," she explained, "I'm on the water so much my hair gets wavy." But even that has not diminished the popularity of the charming Miss Caprice.

she commands great admiration for her wonderful dramatic force and technique.

Sessue Hayakawa, the distinguished Japanese artist, who made such a pronounced success playing opposite Blanche Sweet in "The Clue" again gives one of his finished performances opposite Fanny Ward. Mr. Hayakawa is considered one of the most eminent artists on the Japanese stage and those who have seen him in this country can readily observe why he merits the consideration. Hector Turnbull, the playwright, wrote "The Cheat" especially for Miss Ward and Mr. Hayakawa, and those who saw it before say that it is one of the most thrilling and unusual photodramas ever seen on the screen.

The scenes of the play are located on fashionable Long Island. The big society lawn fete and ball afford great opportunity for the display of the smartest fashions.

Marrying a Butterfly

By MRS. EVA LEONARD

Ethel's Napkins Are Ruined and She Takes None of the Blame.

"Well, what is the trouble now?" Ralph's tone was impatient. The day since the maid had been sent away for drunkenness had been very trying and his patience was frayed around the edges.

Ethel sat sobbing in a heap by the table, but she did not reply. Ralph walked over to the girl and laid his hand on her bowed head. The touch was kinder than the tone and unlocked the pent-up words.

"They are ruined, all my lovely napkins that the girls of the thing club gave me for a wedding present. Each girl embroidered an initial on a napkin, and now—"

"What has happened to them?" came in tones of long-suffering solicitude.

"That awful Pearson woman used them for dust cloths or something awful," wailed the disconsolate little woman.

"Dust cloths! How did she get hold of them?"

"I do not know. They were in the buffet drawer, and—"

"You mean that where they belong. Nothing in this house is ever in the place where it belongs," snapped Ralph.

"They may have been in the laundry," said Ethel, looking up at her husband.

"Can't you wash them and make them all right?" Ralph was trying to change the current of her thoughts.

"Oh, they are all covered with the oil she puts on the dust cloths, and now she has reached for one from the floor. There are two or

Household Hints

THINGS WORTH KNOWING.

Place Pieces of Macaroni upright in holes of the top crust of a berry pie, to allow steam to escape and prevent pie from running over.

To Clean Windows which are smoked, or grimy looking, rub them with a cloth moistened in wood alcohol, then polish with another cloth. This is much better than water.

When Making Sash Curtains, sew Battenberg rings at the top, placing them at equal distances, to run the rod through. The rings look so much neater and prettier than the ruffled heading.

To Clean Spots in a Raincoat—Rub soiled parts with a freshly cut potato. Wipe with a dampened flannel and dry. This will remove spots without injuring the fabric.

DESSERTS.

Peach Caramel Pie—Take one can (three equal amount fresh peaches), empty pan and mash fine with a potato masher. Now add two cups milk and a little water, put on stove and let come to a boil; then with one cup flour and one-half cup sugar, turn into a freshly baked crust and cover with a frosting.

Caramel Tapioca—Take two-thirds can pearl tapioca. Let stand over night in four cups water. Add one cup light and one cup dark brown sugar and let boil until done. Serve with cream sauce. Enough for twelve people.

Cream Sauce: Two cups milk, three tablespoons sugar, one tablespoon butter, one tablespoon cornstarch, one tablespoon vanilla.

Baked Apples, Fruit Sauce—Pare, core and quarter apples; lay in baking dish, add sugar and cinnamon. Make nice biscuit dough. Roll out, cut into center, lay apples, press down edge and bake until apples are done.

Fruit Sauce: One teaspoon cornstarch (or one tablespoon flour), one cup sugar; mix. Add one cup boiling water, place butter and add one-fourth cup fruit wine. Pour over pudding, or you may use hard sauce.

One heaping tablespoon butter, creamed. Add confectionary sugar gradually until stiff and hard. Flavor with lemon.

TO ICE PASTRY.

For fruit tarts and sweet dishes of pastry, put the white of an egg on a plate and beat it to a stiff froth.

When the pastry is nearly baked, brush it over with this, and sift over the oven to set the glaze, and in a few minutes it will be done.

Great care should be taken that the paste does not catch or burn in the oven, which it is likely to do after the icing is laid on.

ANTS.

A good way to get rid of ants is to sprinkle pepper where the ants are. If they are in the jelly, sprinkle some pepper around the jelly or take a piece of jelly out and sprinkle pepper around it.

CANNING AND PRESERVING.

Pickled Cherries—Put quart can with nice big cherries, leaving stems on. Fill can with half vinegar and half water; add a teaspoon of salt. No cooking; all cold.

Raspberry Butter or Jam—Rub paring berry pulp and sugar, boil about twenty minutes, put in glasses or in cans. Will answer the purpose of jelly. No waste except seeds.

Can Mulberries Alone—Add one tablespoon vinegar to a quart of berries; can as any fruit. Mulberries will not keep unless canned with something sour.

FIT FOR A KING.

Half cup butter, one cup sugar, one-half cup sweet milk, two cups flour sifted, one teaspoon baking powder, white four eggs beaten stiffly. Steam for five minutes in cups or buttered pan. Roll in powdered sugar and serve with following: Cream one-third cup butter, one cup powdered sugar. Beat into this gradually one cup crushed strawberries. This dessert can be made in the morning or day before serving, warm up in steamer and have sauce melt down over.

COLD, DRY SUGAR CANNING.

Berries must be in prime condition and perfectly fresh. Wash in cold water and drain dry; cut in two. To each cup of strawberries add one cup of sugar, put in a stone vessel and seal in refrigerator over night. Can in air-tight jars in the morning. They retain natural flavor and are fine for shortcake, sherbets and creams.

WOMEN LABOR BUREAU ORGANIZED BY U. S.

Uncle Sam Today Announced New Employment System for Female Labor Is All Ready.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)

Washington, July 13.—Uncle Sam's all ready to help his women and girls get jobs.

Organization of the recently created Women's and Girls' division of the United States Employment service of the Bureau of Immigration is now on a working basis. Commissioner-General of Immigration Caminetti announced here today.

Branches of this bureau have been established in all the leading cities of the country. They are in charge of women. Uncle Sam's investigation disclosed that women and girls don't like to deal with men when they go to an employment bureau, that's why.

The service stations will give special attention to the requests of women wage earners for work and to meeting the demand for female help in rural as well as urban communities.

If a woman in Des Moines wants a job in Kansas City but doesn't know much about conditions down there, she will be told by the bureau. Detailed information about pay, hours and general conditions will be placed at her disposal by the bureau.

If the woman wants to get into a certain kind of work but doesn't know enough about it to be efficient, the bureau nearest her home will provide her a vocational training course along that line and be hunting a job for her in the meantime.

Each bureau is responsible to the government for the sort of places it sends the women who ask for jobs. The women in charge of the bureau must "protect the women and girls from exploitation and misdirection; and no woman or girl shall be directed to an opportunity unless the character of the place and the employer has been established to the satisfaction of the officer in charge."

The factory owners and business men of the United States are urged to co-operate with Uncle Sam's women agents in getting efficient female help placed in the right jobs.

HEART AND HOME PROBLEMS

By MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Letters may be addressed to Mrs. Thompson, in care of the Gazette.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) Would you give up a tried and true friend, a friend which is rare, one who would knock down some of the saints with their treachery, lies and gossip, would you give up that kind of a friend for one who adds a little to the fire and who has been accused of being afraid of standing up for friends?

(2) After you had made your choice, if you were a boy, wouldn't you be contented to abide by it?

(3) Should a boy friend point out to you how inferior you are and how greatly superior he is in every way, what a condition he would be in! He has made to be a friend and what remarkable traits he has! Another thing my boy friend likes to argue. I don't perfectly satisfy him and can't see a thing to argue about. I am a little country girl and not half or three-quarters. He is kind of mushy and likes girls to run after him. Don't you think it is a good thing to keep far away from people against whom you have been warned, especially if they can't come so hardened that they can't feel that they have done wrong?

WANTITA MORE.

(1) Why give up one friend for another? Keep both.

(2) Not if I saw something better than my first choice.

(3) A boy should be extremely careful if he points out faults and should not flaunt his own virtues. It usually pays to listen to what other people think is wrong with you and to see if their opinion is not partly true. Of course it is a mistake to waste time with someone who makes you unhappy, unless you can get some good out of being with that person.

(4) A girl can be friendly to a boy without compromising herself. If she expects a boy to go all the way all the time he will get scared out to see if their opinion is not partly true. Many good people who have done wrong according to their own views are criticized by people who have different and perhaps narrower views. Try to look at things from the condensed person's standpoint.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) I have brown hair that shades into a red. Please tell me what I can do to get rid of the red shade and make it darker.

(2) My arms are just covered with hair. What can I do for this?

(3) How should a girl of seventeen fix her hair in back? Can you suggest a way?

(4) If you try to change the color of your hair you will spoil it. There are hundreds of women who would give a great deal to have the shade you are so anxious to get rid of.

(5) Use lemon juice or peroxide on the hair until you have bleached it. Both are drying and injurious to the roots. If you apply them faithfully the growth will be less prolific.

(6) Wear your hair in a style at the back of your neck.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl almost twenty-one years old and I am in love with a man of twenty-eight. I have reason to think that he loved me. He has become very kind in love with a friend who is visiting me and a hasty marriage has been planned. I know that he will never be happy with her and I wish to spare him from an unhappy married life. Can you help me?

M. B. N.

The man may be happier than you think he will. He has chosen his own future and it is not your place to interfere with his plans. You might do what the girls in novels and the movies do. Pretend to be in love with another man and jealousy may awaken him to the fact that after all you are the girl he loves. Since a hasty marriage has been planned anything you try probably will be too late to do any good.

WISCONSIN STAMPS OUT NEARLY ALL BABY BLINDNESS THROUGH LAW REGULATION.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Madison, Wis., July 13.—Baby blindness in Wisconsin has practically been stamped out since the law requiring that physicians report all cases of ophthalmia neonatorum to public health authorities and appropriating funds for the purchase of silver nitrate, went into effect.

The state board of health. The board of health has recently made its annual distribution of silver nitrate to health officers who supply physicians and midwives. Since the law became its first appropriation for silver nitrate, not one case of baby blindness has been reported in the state. One Milwaukee baby lost the sight of one eye because the physician failed to apply the remedy. Officials of the state school for blind at Janesville declare that from 25 to 35 per cent of the blind children in that institution owe their affliction to failure to administer silver nitrate at birth.

TWO YARDS

"What an untidy-looking veranda!" said the Auntie Man's wife.

"Oh, that's all right," said the young girl, "there were children there," said Molly, the little sister.

"And it looks as if they had a very happy time," said the Lady, who knew somehow, with a tender smile.

The veranda in question was lavishly decorated with scraps of rose-colored crepe paper, and odds and ends of the paraphernalia of good-natured festivity.

It was lunch time, and the children and the children's friends were gathered around the square of the dining-room floor.

The result was a veranda made of scraps of paper, and odds and ends of the paraphernalia of good-natured festivity.

My mind went back to my own childhood and to two yards, one of my own, and the other, that where one of my playmates lived.

Perhaps you can remember where she existed. She lived in our yard and so did half the children in the neighborhood. It was a long, narrow strip of land, rich in such attractions as a long, low, and a reason-able amount of pickings, but even then, things will have some ragged edges.

Which would you rather have, mothers and fathers, a pick and a span, or a happy and happy children who are proud to invite the others to "come and play in our yard?"

INFANTILE PARALYSIS.

This disease has prevailed in Europe for many years but the first epidemic in America occurred in 1907.

Nozuchi and Flexner have shown that the contagion is present in the discharges from the nose. Others have demonstrated its presence in the bowel discharges. It is probably a germ too small to be seen with the highest power microscopes now available.

While the disease can be inoculated in monkeys by planting the virus in the nose and irritating the mucous membrane, it cannot be inoculated by planting the virus hypodermically, which would tend to make the disease more contagious.

Physicians have strong evidence that it is a carrier of the disease. Also cats and dogs have been convicted of carrying the infection in the secretions from the nose and so causing the disease in children.

The virus resists cold and the disease is not contagious in warm weather.

Cases occur in children from one year of age, but the disease is most common in the third year of life.

The illness will cause the discharges from the nose and the bowels to be bloody and the child will be unable to move them but little if at all.

This may develop without any evidence of pain, though in some cases the child complains of pain in the limbs or limbs become weak and appear.

Recent outbreaks from one source in a family of all cases are about one-third of the patients.

A complete recovery of function of the paralyzed muscles in the course of a year after the onset of the disease is permanent. Probably the complete effect is drop-foot.

But shrunken half-paralysis is frequent.

Spasms of the chest is in some cases a side of the disease, leading to subsequent spinal curvature.

Restores Gray Hair Without Dye

Vola-Vita, the New Scientific Discovery, Restores Vitality of Color-Glands and Hair Roots.

The way to restore gray, faded or bleached hair to its original color, without dye or stain, has never before been actually solved. Today it is an accomplished fact. The discovery has been made that hair consists of five principal substances, and that when any one or more of these is missing the hair-

"Who would ever think it! Vola-Vita brings back existent hair color without tanning or dyeing the hair! roots and color-glands lose their vitality, the hair falls out, turns gray, dandruff and baldness follow. The new scientific discovery, Vola-Vita, restores these missing substances in a remarkable way. The results are quickly seen: the hair always stops falling, hair grows luxuriantly, dandruff disappears completely. And another remarkable thing occurs—whether your hair was originally red, black, or brown, it will restore to exact shade to your hair, no matter how gray, faded or bleached it may now be. It is a hair restorer, not a dye or stain. It is a hair restorer. A modern cause of hair troubles is alcohol in hair tonics. Alcohol dries up hair, and shortens hair life. Vola-Vita contains no alcohol. Vola-Vita will solve your hair and scalp troubles completely, quickly. Satisfaction guaranteed."

"Vola-Vita" is sold at all drug stores in 50c and $1.00 bottles, or sent direct by Vola-Vita Mfg. Co., Chicago, Ill. The $1.00 bottle contains 1 1/2 times as much as the 50c size.

THE NEW CLARION

By...
WILL N. HARBEN

Copyright, 1914, by Harper & Brothers

The next morning after he had left Mary at the office Abner walked around to the jail, taking a quiet side street to avoid passing through the business section of the town.

Abner ascended the narrow stairs slowly. The first flight was rather dark, and he had to place his feet carefully. However, there was more light in the neighborhood of Howard's cell, and as Abner drew near the bars he saw Howard rise from his cot at his approach and stand peering through the squares at him.

"Hello, Howard! How are you, my boy?" Abner asked, mastering his emotion with difficulty and trying to speak in a cheerful, offhand tone.

"Oh, I'm all right, Uncle Ab. How are you?" Abner was dismayed at the change in Howard's appearance since he had last seen him. He was paler and thinner, and worried had cut deep lines in his face. His eyes glowed with the fire of despair. His hair stood stiffly away, and his hands quivered as they clutched the bars. "I say I'm all right, but I don't know that I am anything to boast of. I am only flesh and blood, after all, and this is a pretty tough situation. I try to hope. I keep saying to myself that it will come out right, but sometimes I doubt it. I know what I've got to face in my trial, and there is hardly one chance in a hundred of escaping the gallows. The more I think about it the worse the situation seems."

"Oh, you are blue," Abner returned, merrily. "Confinement has upset your liver. It will do it for the stoutest constitutions. You must keep up hope. The editorials you are writing are the finest things you ever done. Then that's Mary—think of her, Howard."

Abner saw a look of inexpressible tenderness suffuse the wan, steel-framed face and heard the prisoner sigh.

"Lord, Lord, Uncle Ab," he said. "I seldom think of any one else here of late. If I am condemned to death I'll carry to the end the sweet thought of what she has been and is to me. That is worrying me, too, and I don't know what to do about it."

"How is it worrying you?" Abner asked.

"Why, Uncle Abner—Howard's voice shook, and he averted his eyes—"her beautiful young life, so full of sweet usefulness, ought not to be associated in any way with mine. I brought this thing on myself. She used to warn me against my hot temper and plead with me to control it. If I had listened to her advice I'd never have been accused of this crime, and so now some people are saying that she and I are engaged to be married. She is the most wonderful girl in all the world and deserves a long life of happiness. She doesn't deserve having her name dragged in the mire like this. I don't care so very much for myself now. I've passed that point, but the consciousness that that dear girl is suffering through my worthless existence and may suffer even more is unbearable."

"Don't say that, my boy," Abner pleaded. "You now know what a woman's love means. You now know what many a husband don't know even after passing a long life with a faithful wife. You have proof that Mary Trumble would die for you. Ain't that something?"

Howard's breast rose under a billow of emotion. "We've never spoken of our love," he said. "We talk chiefly of our work. You see, I am not in a position to tell her how I feel. I didn't before this, and I can't now. I want her to know how I have grown to love her and lean on her since I came here, and yet I can't honorably mention it."

"I understand," Abner said tenderly. "You needn't bother about that, though. Mary knows. She shows it in her gentle face when she comes back to the office after seeing you. She has been my mainstay in this matter, Howard. She hasn't never for one second doubted your release. She gets that from God direct. She is suffering, keen pained over the way you are being treated, but she believes in her heart that it will end."

Within half a mile of Trumble's were the Hilldale camp meeting grounds, which were used annually by several Protestant churches for open air union services for a week. The time had come around again, the farmers having laid by their crops to wait for their vespertine and being free to attend.

On the first Sunday of the meeting the spaces in the surrounding level woodland were well staked off and filled with housekeeping tents, each having its fireplace, where food was prepared.

On that first Sunday morning Abner rose and looked out of his window upon the road. He dressed himself carefully, putting on his best black trousers and coat, which was a long frock and worn without a vest in the summer, and then went out on the dew wet lawn. Here he met Mary, an empty pan under her arm. She was coming from the barnyard, where she had been to feed the chickens.

"I thought you had did that job since you become a up to date newspaper woman?" he teased as she greeted him with a welcoming smile.

"I do it on Sundays," she answered. "I don't want the chickens to forget me."

"Big meetin' they are goin' to have down at the shed," he remarked, brushing some lint off the sleeve of his coat. "They say Brother Wellman is a regular wheel boss at whoopin' up sinners an' backsliders. You are a-goin', ain't you?"

She shook her head, put down her pan on the grass and began to retie his cravat, which she said looked like a shoestring. "I don't feel like it," she said, with a swift glance into his eyes, her lips quivering. "Last year Howard and I went together, and—and—well, I don't want to go."

"I remember," Abner said, seeing that her voice had completely failed her. "I remember when he came by for you. Me an' him had a chat thar on the steps while you was peepin' up an' puttin' your hat on. La, la, things have changed, ha'n't they? I watched you two as you passed through the gate an' strolled across the meadow to escape the dust of the road, both of you pickin' dowers. I went on to meetin' an' sat thar a good half hour 'fore you an' him finally come. You made a purty sight, as purty as I'd care to see. I remember I thought that you two didn't need no cut an' dried religion. Thar was youth an' happiness, good will an' faith shinin' out o' yore faces. I remember how you an' him giggled out loud when the bench gave way an' Brother Carroll had seen a tumble in the straw an' go, up so mad that he refused to pray when they axed 'im. Them seem happy days when you look back on 'em. We sit to look forward for happiness instead o' back, but we don't as a rule."

"I can't go to the meeting, I simply can't," Mary half sobbed.

"You don't know what you are talkin' about, child. I've a good mind to be more plain in what I say. Don't you see God's hand in it all? After the time o' which I jest spoke, when you an' Howard was so happy, things begun to happen agin the harmony of it all. He indulged his natural pride an' hot temper an' this trouble came on him. An' what was the consequence?"

Why, he's learnt a great lesson. Ad' you—you have showed that you are a woman o' brain an' power an' heart an' have won his very soul. Mary, my child, he loves you with a love that is as rare as a flower growin' on a mountain o' ice—a love that never could be born any other way. His face melts an' glows, his voice shakes, when he talks about you an' how dear you are to 'im. He says he hasn't told you about it, fer he feels unworthy of you because this blight is on 'im. Now—now, this is just the earthly part of the whole divine process you an' him are goin' through, an' it ain't as bad as you think it is. You may be losin' faith an' hope, but I ain't. His love an' yore'n is too beautiful, too glorious, too Godlike, to ever be crushed clean out. He's goin' to be free. I tell you, girl, I simply will not give up. I won't! I won't! God will give us light. He will! He will!"

"Oh, Uncle Abner—Uncle Abner!" Mary began. "You are so good—so full of faith and courage! I'm going to meeting with you. I want to be by your side today, for I have almost given up. Tears in her eyes, she turned and walked away."

CHAPTER XXVI.

At the Camp Meeting.

MARY and Abner reached the shed together where the religious services were to be held. Leaving him, she took a seat on the side occupied by the women, and he sank upon the last bench near the front end. He was known to be unorthodox in belief and was seldom asked to speak or lead in prayer. The seats were rapidly filled, and men and boys pressed close against the benches on the outside. He saw Edw. Tinsley enter at the side and take a seat on the platform, bowing his head in prayer according to custom, and as he had come alone Abner decided that Mrs. Tinsley was averse to appearing in public. Another person who attracted Abner's notice was Mrs. Fulton. She was alone and sat directly across the aisle from Abner. He noted that her face was pale and careworn. There was a restless, furtive look in her eyes as she glanced about her, and the thought came to him that perhaps Abner's recent disturbed manner might have attracted her attention. Did the woman know—did she suspect her husband's guilt, and was her conscience troubling her for not revealing the truth? She looked in Abner's direction, saw him for the first time and shrank back so visibly that he was sure the sight of him had startled her.

"I'm watchin' that man o' ours," Pole said.

At this juncture Abner happened to glance toward the entrance and saw Pole Baker directing his wife and children to a seat, while he himself remained back among the bystanders outside. Staring steadily, Abner caught his eye and made a motion to the vacant space on the bench beside him; but to his surprise, Pole shook his head and shyly motioned Abner to come over. Rising and joining him, Pole led him in silence away from the shed to a spot among the trees where some horses and mules were harnessed to stumps and wagon wheels.

"No meetin' fer me today," were Pole's first words. "Got other fish to fry."

"What's up?" Abner asked eagerly. "I'm watchin' that man o' ours," Pole said. "I don't want 'im to make a move that I don't see. He's a-settin' on a log right back o' the pulpit now. I followed him an' his wife from thar cabin till I had to fine Jane an' the children down the road a piece. I can't tell Jane about this an', blame me, if I don't have as hard work gittin' her to let me alone as all the rest put together. You see, Uncle Ab, if I don't let her know exactly what I've been an' what fer she puts it down to some woman devilment o' mine. She seed me come out o' the thicket down the road just now an' hain't spoke a word since. Ef she says any prayer today it will be that the Lord will bring me to judgment. I believe when a feller tries to turn over a new leaf an' git good that the Lord will help 'im in some ways, but the devil will git at 'im through his wife. It was a cold blooded business arrangement betwix me an' Jane at the start, but she's plin' down on me like a gal o' sixteen goin' through 'er first love spasm. She's raked up every bad thing I ever was guilty of, an' you know yoreself that 'ud keep 'er busy. I tell 'er I'm done with all that sort o' thing, but jest let me black my boots, share up or put on a clean shirt, an' she wants to know what the woman's hidin'."

"What are you watchin' Abner today fer?" Abner asked, his thoughts far from his friend's domestic affairs.

"Why, I jest imagined," Pole answered, "since I ketched Abe prayin' 't'other day that maybe this rousin' meetin' might work on his conscience in the way you spoke of. I thought I'd keep an eye on 'im, anyhow."

Abner was silent for several minutes; then, facing his companion, he said: "You started me out on this particular line, Pole, an' you'll deserve most o' the credit if any good comes from it. I don't feel right in keepin' you out of it so much. I'd 'n' let you do more, but I was afraid two on the job would scare 'im off. You are cautious, Pole, an' I want you to do somethin' fer me this mornin'. Don't you think you could run across Abe sorter by accident like an' say somethin' or other in a offhand, roundabout way that 'd tend to make 'im sorry fer Howard?"

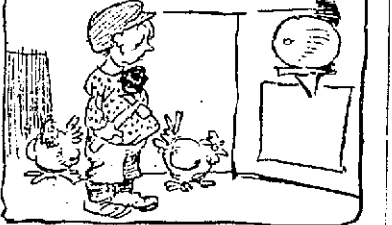

"I reckon I could, Uncle Ab, an' I'll try if you think it will do any good."

"Well, go ahead, but don't stay long, fer I'm goin' to talk to 'im myself this mornin'. Let me know when you are through an' I'll take some step or other."

Leaving Abner among the trees, Pole walked around the shed till he was close to where Abe Fulton sat on the log, his sluggy head down.

"You hain't got a good sent, Abe," he smiled cordially, "but it's better'n one you have to stay on till the doxology is sung."

Dinner Stories

Once a very youthful chicken fancier had in his possession a couple of bantam hens that laid very small eggs. He finally hit upon a plan to remedy this.

When the lad's father went the next morning to the chicken house he was surprised to find an ostrich egg tied to one of the beams, and about it a card with this notice:

"Keep your eye on this and do your best."

An Irish quack doctor was being examined at an inquest upon the treatment of a patient who had been in his care.

"You might just as well have given him the aurora borealis," replied the coroner.

"Indeed, Yer Honor, an' that's just what O'd have given him next, if he hadn't unfortunately died."

It is not generally known that Mrs. Sarah Bernhardt is a painter of rare merit. About one of her paintings she is fond of relating an amusing story.

"Once," she says, "I thought seriously of abandoning the stage for the brush, but wisdom came to my rescue. I finished a small study, and calling up my man servant, I asked him to take the picture to the framemaker's and have it framed. "Certainly, madame, certainly!" he said, and he took up the canvas in rather a careless way.

"Oh, do be careful!" I said sharply. "The paint is not quite dry yet."

"Never mind about that, madame," replied the man, "my clothes are old!"

and explain our plans and proposals to the people and you need have no fear of the result.

Marshall Cousins was nominated for lieutenant governor. Major Cousins passed through Madison while the convention was in session with the Third Wisconsin, en route to the Mexican border.

He sent a telegram suggesting a special session of the legislature for legislation providing that soldiers not at the front may vote in the coming election. Chairman C. B. Bird announced that the law regarding voting by mail is being delivered into for opinion as to whether it will apply to the absent militiamen.

He was charged with the declaration: "If it does not, I believe I express the unanimous sentiment of the convention when I say that every possible means should be taken to permit our soldiers to vote."

Henry Johnson, present congressional treasurer, was nominated without opposition. Paul Schardt of Oconto, whose name had been suggested as a possible candidate, but intimated that he would make the race as an independent candidate.

There were between nine hundred and a thousand delegates at the convention hall when the session opened. Long before the state ticket had been taken up many were forced to leave a catch trains to make connections for their homes. Rock county sent a special car with twenty-three delegates and a band, arrived at noon, and were forced to leave at five-forty. It was a long trip for such a short stay, but as one of the delegates stated at the depot, "Say, it was worth twice the trip just to hear that speech of Jeffries and listen to the governor."

The committee composed of one representative from each congressional district brought in the platform, which was read to the convention by Levi H. Bancroft of Richland Center, and endorsed by a word of opposition. It endorses the president and Charles H. Hughes for president and Charles W. Fairbanks for vice president. It endorses the candidacy of M. G. Jeffries for United States senator against La Follette. It praises the Philipp administration, claiming that it has saved the taxpayers $2,000,000 a year and declares that much of the good that the governor attempted to accomplish in the last legislature was obstructed.

The convention was called to order by George B. West of Milwaukee. C. H. Bird acted as permanent chairman. Addresses were made by Governor Philipp and M. G. Jeffries of Janesville. The convention was attended by about 900 delegates.

The following platform was adopted:

We affirm our adherence to the enduring principles of the republican party as expressed in the national platform adopted last month at the national convention.

We unqualifiedly endorse the nominees of that convention, Honorable Charles E. Hughes for president and Honorable Charles W. Fairbanks for vice president, as eminently fitting to efficiently administer those principles for the welfare of the nation.

We further believe that the republican party of Wisconsin should nominate as its candidate for United States senator Honorable Calhoun C. Jeffries, who stands upon and approves that fundamental declaration of our principles, and congress in the several districts who likewise believe in and support the principles of our party.

The cost of state government had been up to the administration of Governor Philipp, increasing from year to year until it reached a point where the cost was 400 per cent over that of 1900, while the population of the state had increased in the meantime only 12 per cent. The condition of taxation had become a burning and was causing widespread concern among all classes of citizens. Expenditures had been made in a reckless and wasteful manner and we demanded a substantial retrenchment. Every branch of state government should be brought to as low a cost as possible, without injury to public service.

We heartily commend and endorse the effective efforts of Governor Philipp and his supporters in the legislature in checking this increase and in reducing state expenses by nearly $2,000,000 during his administration. His efforts to further reduce cost and taxation were thwarted by certain members of the legislature during the last session. We commend Governor Philipp and his efforts to this end and the efforts of those members of the legislature whom supported him and we condemn the action of those members of the legislature who thwarted the full carrying out of his plans and partially defeated the demand of the people for lower taxes and greater economy in public affairs.

We point out to the people of the state of Wisconsin the necessity not only of electing a governor who will do his part, but also the necessity of supporting him by state officers and a legislature who will cooperate with him.

We unqualifiedly approve the efforts of Governor Philipp in establishing a system of state accounting to the end that the people may be fully apprised of all public expenditures, the amount of money expended and for what specific purpose, and we recommend such legislation as may be necessary for the complete establishment of a system of state accounting.

We favor all real progress in government and a liberal support of institutions that make government serviceable to the people and advance the cause of humanity. We recognize that there must be continual progress in new activities the most must be taken into consideration in order that the taxes shall not become burdensome to the people.

We believe in constitutional government and in concentrating the responsibility for government in the hands of the constitutional officers elected by and directly responsible to the people. The delegation of power to boards and commissions out of the reach of the people will build up a wasteful and dangerous bureaucracy destructive of the fundamentals of government, the American principle of home rule and of administration directly responsible to the electors.

During Governor Philipp's administration progress has been made in the consolidation of commissions, and in lessening the expense, while increasing their efficiency, but we demand that there be further steps in this direction, and also that increased expenditures for extension of activities be subject to the approval of the responsible constitutional officers of the state elected by the people.

We believe that political parties are necessary to the orderly administration of government. Party conventions are necessary to maintain party organization, and to give to the people an opportunity to assemble, discuss their needs, determine their policies and select candidates to carry them out. To therefore demand the establishment by law of party conventions, protecting their integrity by electing delegates by direct vote of members of the party and the simplification of the primary and election procedure of the state.

We commend the efforts that have been made by the present administration for the benefit of the common schools and we recommend that still further efforts be made for their improvement. We approve of the law that was passed by the last legislature to extend and night school for the benefit of the laborers of the state.

We believe that the state owes its first duty to the welfare of the masses which upbuilding of those activities only makes for general welfare. We demand a more equitable distribution of the school funds for the benefit of the common schools and that the educational interests of the state be brought into closer relationship through the increased efficiency of the country school.

The republican party was born in a storm and stress of a great national crisis. The people of Wisconsin now, as then, are mindful of the duties and dangers of the hour. Already at the nation's call, we have sent to the Mexican border three regiments of artillery. To her brave and loyal sons who have volunteered for service Wisconsin should pledge her every resource for the welfare of those on duty at the front and the loving ones who are left behind.

We submit to the republican electors of Wisconsin this declaration of our principles and we solicit the nomination of the candidates approved and endorsed by this convention, to carry such principles into effective execution.

We realize that the times demand statesmen in both state and nation. The republican party of Wisconsin submits to the electors of the state its candidates, both state and national and national as measuring up to the required standard and we hereby pledge to them our united support.

MR. HEROLD

DOLLIES

Whoever would think about dollies except women? This is not an accusation, nor is it our desire to bowl anybody out about dollies. As for dollies, we are absolutely unbiased about 'em—up to this point. We may get inflamed before we have gone far, but up to this time we are cool. However, dollies are pretty feminine—we must say that.

Will there still be dollies when suffrage becomes universal? Some how it is hard to think of suffrage and dollies in the same breath. Will suffrage destroy the dolly? Every home that is a home has eighty or ninety dollies here and there, dollies under the molasses pitcher, dollies under the ice water, dollies, dollies everywhere, and a lot of dollies absolutely justified from any practical standpoint. In fact, it is these latter dollies that we love best of all. The more useless a dolly, the more we love it.

Ladies and gentlemen, here is the whole point to any real objection that anybody may have to suffrage. We don't want it to destroy the dolly instinct in women. Dollies and lingerie—what is life without THEM? What would home be if it were a place of four cement walls, a cook-stove and a khaki tablecloth? No, let us preserve the dolly and other feminine foibles.

Sombody in the audience says that dollies have been out of style ten years. Well, maybe they have. We haven't noticed.

Whitewater News

Whitewater, July 13.—The seven year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Jay P. Warner died July 1 at Tempe, Arizona, and was brought here for burial last Saturday. John was born in Long Beach, Cal., and was a bright and intelligent boy. His disease was perhaps the rarest known to medical science, an inflammation of the muscle cells, known to physicians as myositis fibrosa. Only one or two cases are on record and those occurred in British India. The disease is incurable and has a duration of four days.

FORCE OF "POLICE MOTHERS" GUARD GIRLS WHO GO ALONE TO CONEY ISLAND.

New York, July 13.—There appeared upon the beach at Coney Island today the new force of "Police Mothers," a volunteer organization of women possessing police authority, whose members patrol the sands to keep harm from the thousands of girls who come alone to the big resort.

The force is commanded by Mrs. Ellen Crank, of the department of parks of the Borough of Brooklyn. While the Police Mothers co-operate with the regular police, their work is more personal and calculated to prevent trouble for the girls rather than to stop it after it has gotten started. The patrolled district is the entire beach, from Sea Gate to Brighton. The Police Mothers serve without pay.

BOSTON BATTERS SOX; LOSE SECOND DOUBLE

LOCAL GOLFERS MAY ATTEND STATE MEET

Redlegs Again Take Twin Bill.—Russell and Williams Hurl Pitchers' Battle Throughout.

The Sox dropped another pair to Boston yesterday, 2-1 and 3-1. Weaver was eased out of the game in the eighth with the score one all after putting up a big yell because he was called out on first. Zeh Terry took his place. Reb Russell was heaving against Shore and the game developed into a pitchers' battle, each being knocked for eight safe ones.

Williams and Leonard furnished the opposition in the second battle and the like the first things were quite even, each yielding six hits. Terry's making a mess of a pair of groundsers shot at him in the eighth beat the White Sox in the second game.

The Sox are now in fourth place, two and a half games behind Boston.

MORRIS MILLER

Even though the Athletics are playing the most outrageous baseball they seem to be drawing pretty fair crowds. "You may break, you may shatter the vase if you will, or something like that." But perhaps the fans feel that Connie's outcups have yet a chance to show some regular baseball.

Fred Luderus is another one of our best little batsmen who has had trouble in hitting his right stride at this year. Until quite recently Fred had been tormented with a slump that he seemed unable to escape. Pat Morgan, Philly manager, believes that had Luderus been able to hit his stride at an earlier in the season the Phillies would have been well out in front some time ere this. If Fred has really hit his best clip, as his recent performances indicate, then everyone may prepare to see the Phillies step along and clinch their place at the head of the National league.

There seems to be a movement started to discourage the literary ambitions of ball players and if the thing goes through we'll have no more world's series buns and other such. The recent quarrel between Garry Herrmann and John McGraw, wherein Garry declared that McGraw sought to stir dissension and fretting among the Reds has had much to do with the proposal to suppress the player-author. McGraw, it may be known, was writing for the papers and he said that Charlie Herzog and Hal Chase of the Reds would be writing it up in some neat little scraps before the season's end. And so Garry got after Muggsy for that. And it looks like we'll have no more player-literatures.

Even though the Cubs appear to be coming along, Chicago fans admit they are disappointed in the bunch. Most everyone seemed to think that the Cub-whale combination would make a sure winner. Howbeit they may yet show some real fight.

In a recent game between the Giants and the Braves, Johnny Evers relayed the ball in making an infield play to first. The ball was batted to Evers who tossed it to Maranville and Maranville sent it to Evers, nabbing the runner. Evers declared that he wanted to save his arm, but John McGraw got all het up about it, declaring that Evers wanted to show up McGraw's players—which he did whether he wanted to or not—and Muggsy tried to start something with the umpire about it.

Dave Robinson, who pounds the pill to a pretty tune and is a favorite with Giant fans, is no rabbit on the bases. It's in this department that Dave is weak and though he can get down with a pleasant frequency he has trouble in going further unaided. And the funny thing about Dave is that he's a flash at getting down to first on any kind of a single, but once on first he hugs the sack like all 't-out. He has stolen only two bases so far this season.

A bit of spiking is all right among friends, it seems. Not long ago Max Carey of the Pirates spiked Alex McCarthy of the Cubs and it was a considerable spike. But the two were at dinner together that evening as

LOTS OF STARS WITH BROWNS, BUT WHY DON'T THEY EVER STAR

Left to right: Shotten, Pratt and Sister.

Anyone considering the St. Louis Browns on paper sees a formidable array of talent and a crowd that should be capable of fast ball. Sister, Shotten and Ernie Johnson have been hitting a very fair clip and several of the rest of the boys are approaching the .300 mark. With a few changes in the line-up's arrangement Fielder Jones hopes to have his bunch doing a much better stride before long.

Stories that appear from time to time about the engagement and approaching marriage of Hans Wagner are all lies, declares Honus. The single state is plenty good enough for him, the Dutchman says.

Jeff Tesreau, the Giants' Ozark bear, has cultivated an underhand delivery and is using it for the first time since joining the team with real success. Everyone says it's a bell-ringer.

The White Sox have grabbed Fritz von Kolnitz, the clever young infielder who reported to the Reds not long ago. Fritz played good ball last season but in the winter declared that he had retired from the game and would practice law. Then it was found that he was playing semi-pro ball in Virginia. So he showed up at Cincy when they spoke to him about it and when the Reds didn't need him he went to the Sox.

George Cutshaw.

George Cutshaw seems to be having an unusually successful season with the Brooklyn Dodgers and is considered the strength of their infield. The fast and snappy performer has shown around second is the best he's offered since he joined the team from Oakland in 1912.

OUTDOOR ENJOYMENT.

Should Grasp Appreciation of Nature's Gift of Sweet Odors.

LaFollette Hearn describes a smelly party in Japan, at which the guests undertake to name a large number of scents by smelling the burning incense sticks. Here is an effort in the land of outdoor odors to develop the sense of smell along with the sensibility of the other faculties of sense.

How important is the sense of smell when one walks amid the pathways and avenues of the wide open! What an added delight if one is able to detect the more pungent from the multifarious elements of incense of the flowers and trees and vegetation in general!

This should be a power commensurate with that of the trained musician to detect the quality of instrumentation of every player in an orchestra. It should, in fact, be a mark of culture. But it is not so.

Yet the absence of trained powers of smelling does not prevent enjoying, even if it denies discrimination in the enjoyment of the odorous out of nature are regal in color, but they are regal as well in perfume.

In the early morning, when the dew is yet upon the earth and the sun is caressing with its first rays each opening flower, how wonderfully fresh and sweet are the waiting billows of incense that rise from the earth and float off into the higher spaces!

To the sweetness every blade of grass and every widdling of the fields contribute, and could the odor be analyzed it would be found to consist of contributions by hundreds and thousands of forms of vegetable life. But the mass effect is that of a soothing and nostril filling balm that makes early morning in the country something beyond the rhapsodies of the poet to extol.—Baltimore American.

Anger May Dominate Pain.

One often sees a child who is entirely overcome by anger. He will throw himself on the floor and be utterly unconscious of what is happening to him or probably of what he himself is doing. The more that is said to him when he is in such a condition the more violent he becomes. He is, for all practical purposes, insane. When anger becomes established in this way in the organism it dominates everything—heart, lungs, every vital process. The more a child is stimulated under such a condition, whether he be scolded or threatened or whipped or pleaded with, the more completely the anger will get control of him. You cannot reason with him, because reason is destroyed for the time being. He is even unconscious of pain, so completely does the emotion of anger dominate his feelings.—Mothers' Magazine.

Expensive Luxury.

"So old Williams is looking for a divorce from his young wife. On what grounds?" "On the grounds of economy, I guess."

THE THIRTY-NINE STEPS

By JOHN BUCHAN

A STRONG STORY OF MYSTERY!
A GREAT WAR SPY ROMANCE!

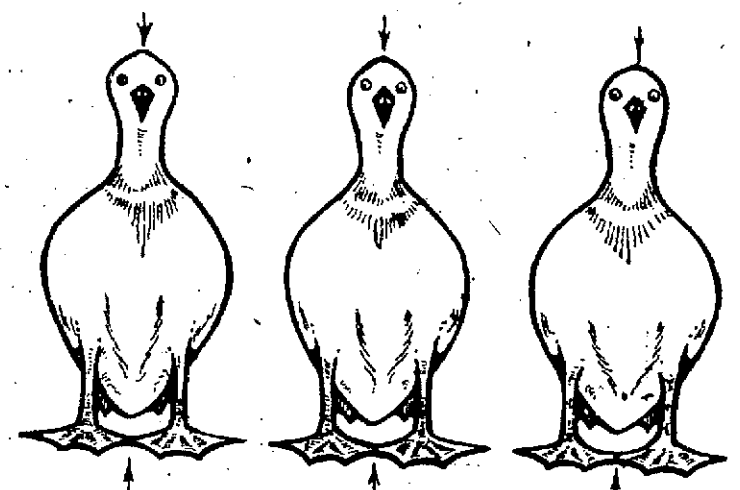

Read It In This Newspaper
The first installment appearing next Saturday

FORTY YEARS AGO

Janesville Daily Gazette, Thursday, July 13, 1876.—Oh, for a residence in some vast estate house. Who wouldn't be an Esquimaux such weather as this?
South Main street receives the benefit of Rock river water now, through the agency of the street sprinkler. The Lotos, with the Bower City band aboard leaves her dock at seven o'clock this evening for an excursion up the river.
Mr. Mosely has received the finest cabinet organ yet brought to this city. It is of the Simmons & Clough manufacture, and the carvings on the case are remarkably artistic and heavy. We call attention to the fact that through the efforts of Postmaster Patterson, a night mail has been arranged between this city and Chicago, by way of Milton Junction and Milwaukee. The mail closes at this office at eight o'clock P. M., and reaches Chicago about six A. M. the next morning.
Mr. J. C. Plumb, of Milton, was in the city today, and brought with him a sample of winter wheat of which he has several acres. The wheat is well headed, and gives indication that it will yield at least 20 bushels to the acre. Mr. Plumb believes that farmers in Rock County can raise winter wheat successfully if they sow it early enough. He sowed his about the last of August.
All persons who may hereafter be found on the fences or buildings or in the trees in the vicinity of the base-ball grounds will be arrested for trespass. A word to the wise is sufficient.

Conducted by Dr. A. S. Bennett.

Something To Cut And Paste

Three-Face Town No. 4

Here is the "Three-Face Town" of Three-Face Town. Paste his pictures on a piece of white paper. Color his eyes, his beak, and his web feet, and leave his body white. Sometimes you will find it easier to copy these drawings larger on another piece of white paper before painting.
After coloring, cut out each figure separately. Now fold in the center as shown by the arrow and paste each figure "back to back" so that you will have three figures made into one, which stands alone and faces in three directions like this top view—A. Save all your figures until you have the whole town.
